NOTHING TO DO

With Trusts Says the Thomas Phillips Company.

It is understood that a combination of flour and cement bag manufacturers and rope paper makers is under way. The prime mover in the proposed consolidation is said to be the National Paper Sack company, which has offices in New York.

According to report, various concerns in New York, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Massachusetts, Virginia, and West Virginia will be absorbed. The capitalization of the "combine" is not given.

An official of the Thomas Phillips company, this city, says that that firm has not yet been approached by the combine in reference to going into the trust. "At any rate," added he, "our company is not inclined to have anything to do with trusts."

MORE PLUMS.

Col. Dick Will Make the Distribution

In Washington to Get Close to New Secretary of War.

Col. Dick, chairman of the Republican state executive committee, left for Washington Wednesday afternoon on business in the departments, says a Columbus special. Col. Dick will be absent the remainder of the week, and it is said that he will discuss the appointment of census enumerators while at the capital.

As a matter of fact, while the colonel will recommend a number of enumerators for appointment, he desires to get in on the ground floor in the matter of military appointments. The announcement by Secretary Root of the war department that he proposes to increase the volunteer force in the Philippines to 50,000 men has set a lot of ambitious officers in Ohio looking after jobs, and Colonel Dick as chairman of the executive committee and as a possible candidate for United States Senator to succeed Foraker, should the tide turn that way, is desirous of having this matter entirely at his command.

Military appointments are about the most coveted plum the administration has to distribute at this time, and in many cases a captaincy goes farther than an office paying twice the salary in civil life. It is said that Dick proposes to be exceedingly liberal this year and that his visit at this time when neither the president or Mr. Hanna is in Washington, is for the purpose of familiarizing himself with just what officers will be needed in the new army so that he may be able to apply Senator Hanna's "direct methods" as he goes along in his work.

LAI D AWAY

To Peaceful Sleep In Glendale Cemetery.

Funeral Services at Home of the Late Prof. Elias Fraunfelder.

Prof. Elias Fraunfelder was laid peacefully to rest in Glendale cemetery Thursday afternoon.

The funeral services which were held at the residence, 580 E. Buchtel ave., at 2 o'clock, were very largely attended. The floral offerings were very beautiful. Various kinds of flowers surrounded the casket, making it appear like a flower garden.

His old arm chair, presented to him by the school teachers last Christmas, was prettily decorated with flowers sent by the teachers. Floral offerings were received from the teachers, Buckley Post, G.A.R., Red Cross, Relief Corps, Legion of Honor, janitors and truant officers, neighbors and friends.

The services opened with singing by the G.A.R. quartet, composed of Messrs. J. W. Little, W. C. Findley, W. A. Putt and Samuel D. Richards. Scripture reading, prayer and a short funeral discourse by Rev. N. J. Myers, pastor of St. Paul's Evangelical Lutheran church, was followed by another selection by the G. A. R. quartet.

Rev. Dr. E. L. Rexford, of Columbus, delivered an address on the educational career of Prof. Fraunfelder. A solo by Mrs. Henry Perkins concluded the services at the residence. The G. A. R. conducted the services at the cemetery. Singing by the quartet, bugle call and taps concluded the services. Benediction was read by Rev. Dr. E. L. Rexford of Columbus.

The out-of-town relatives who attended the funeral were his brother, Dr. James Fraunfelder, wife and son of Canton; another brother, Benjamin Fraunfelder and wife of Ashland; and sister, Mrs. Kate Maxheimer, of Ashland.

RADICAL CHANGE

Is Being Made In Appearance B.&O. Baggage Cars.

A radical change is being made in the appearance of the baggage, mail and express cars on the Baltimore & Ohio railroad. The platforms and hoods are being removed to increase the element of safety and save weight. The favorite riding place of tramps is also eliminated when the platforms are removed. General Manager Underwood has also issued an order to remove the numbers from locomotive tenders, so that in cases of emergency, those of the same style will be interchangeable.

A Senatorial Scandal.

Two ladies visiting in Washington during one of the sessions of congress went to the capitol to hear the proceedings in the United States senate. Most of the galleries being filled, they approached the doorkeeper of the senators' gallery, where admission is by card. As they did not possess this passport, the doorkeeper suggested that they procure one from any senator they might be acquainted with.

"But we do not know any senator," they replied.

"Well, it is very much to your credit," said the doorkeeper. "Pass right in, ladies."—San Francisco Argonaut.

NOTABLE MEMORIALS

STATUES WHICH ATTRACT ATTENTION IN LINCOLN PARK, CHICAGO.

The German-Americans Propose to Add to the Monumental Group a Memorial of the Great German Poet, Goethe.

(Special Correspondence.)

CHICAGO, Aug. 8.—With its cooling breezes from the lake and its shady and comfortable resting places a visit to Lincoln park on a summer afternoon is a delight. Perhaps its most attractive place is "Monument Circle," from which good views can be had of the principal statues which make this park one of the most famous in the country. I doubt if there is any park in the United States which contains so many statues of a really high artistic class as Lincoln park.

Among those which attract especial attention are the Lincoln monument, the Grant equestrian statue, statues of Shakespeare, Schiller, Robert Cavalier, De la Salle, Benjamin Franklin, Hans Christian Anderson and Beethoven. There are a number of ideal figures in bronze and stone, among the most notable being an equestrian statue of an Indian messenger and entitled "The Signal of Peace" and an Indian group entitled "The Alarm." The former is the work of C. E. Dallan, a young American artist, and is declared by Augustus St. Gaudens to be the most artistic of all the statues which adorn these grounds.

To the already extensive group of memorials another will be added. It will be a statue of the great German poet Goethe, and will be erected by his countrymen in this city and vicinity. It is believed that a considerable sum for this purpose will be raised by the coming Goethe celebration. The matter is in the hands of the Schwaben Verein, and it is planned to make this statue a companion monument to the Schiller statue now in Lincoln park, erected some years ago by the same society.

The design for the statue to be selected will probably be the handsome life size model submitted to the members of the Schwaben Verein by Professor Edward Fuchs, a well known German sculptor of Chicago. It presents Goethe in a standing pose, the face that of middle age and clothed in the costume of the period. The facial likeness is by critics said to be perfect. The figure is to be of life size, of bronze, resting on a pedestal of granite. The intention now is to have this statue in time for unveiling erected on Aug. 28, 1900.

But to return to the "Monument Circle" of the park. Unquestionably the finest of all the memorials is the colossal figure in bronze of President Lincoln. After having stood the test of critical observation for a dozen years it is to-day regarded as one of the greatest triumphs among the many ambitious works of Augustus St. Gaudens, and in fact, one of the greatest statues of modern creation.

The great emancipator is represented as standing in an attitude of meditation, advanced a step before a great bronze chair. The statue stands on a granite pedestal four feet high in the center of a broad stone platform approached in front by a low flight of granite steps and surrounded on the other sides by a granite bench and balustrade.

People look at the Lincoln statue and say, "He struck the shackles from 3,000,000 slaves." Then upon the balustrade, carved in granite, they read the immortal words from the hero's Gettysburg oration, "With malice toward none, with charity for all, with firmness in the right as God gives us to see the right, let us strive on."

At the foot of the broad granite steps is a great sphere of granite, like an enormous cannon ball, on which is engraved the emancipation proclamation. The whole monument is an art which communicates feelings of nobleness and goodness.

Let the man come from what part of earth he may, if he be rich in character, he can see the depth of soul in St. Gaudens' figure of Lincoln and will be moved by it.

As for the Grant memorial, many regard it as the most imposing in Lincoln park. Nearly 100,000 persons throughout the country contributed the money for this popular monument. The art work itself is a heroic equestrian statue of the great captain, said to be the largest bronze figure ever cast in America. The horse and its rider rest upon a massive, arched granite foundation and pedestal, on a commanding site overlooking Lake Michigan.

When lights are low.

The rooms are hushed, the lights are low. I sit and listen to the wind. That comes from out the distant hill. It comes and croons in an undertone of alien regions vast and lone. Of pleasures lost in a land unknown. Then steals away, and all is still. 'Tis good to listen to the wind. When rooms are hushed and lights are low.

When those we love have come and gone, 'Tis weary to be left behind— To miss sweet eyes where late they shone, To look for what we miss and find.

Long cherished forms that haunt the mind, Soft voices that were once too kind; To live and miss them once by one. Is weary work. Who'd stay behind When those we love have come and gone?

When lights are low.

When lights are low.

When lights are low.

When lights are low.
